Focus of the day

> Axis REIT: 2QFY13: Within our expectation (Neutral)

Axis REIT's 1HFY13 results fell short of consensus, but within our expectation, with its annualised realised net income making up 92.7% and 97.5% of consensus and our full year forecasts. The proposed 4.60 sen DPU for 2QFY13 was also in line with our forecast. As results come without positive surprises, we keep our forecasts and recommendation unchanged. Hence, we remain NEUTRAL on the stock with unchanged TP of RM3.57, based on DDM valuation model. (refer to report for details)

British American Tobacco (M): 2QFY13: Contract manufacturing saves the day (Sell)

BAT's 1HFY13 results came in largely in line, helped by strong contract manufacturing volume growth of 50.9% y-o-y. However, core net profit remains flattish y-o-y as the company's duty-paid volume recorded a y-o-y contraction of 4.8%. This reiterates our view that earnings prospect for the company is challenging going forward, especially with the likelihood of government raising excise duty for cigarettes in the upcoming Budget 2014. Apart from that, management admitted that the productivity savings initiative has started to produce diminishing marginal benefits to the group. As such, we reiterate our SELL call on the stock with an unchanged TP of RM54.72. (refer to report for details)

(Financial Daily)

A representative of Ranhill Energy and Resources was only able to confirm to The Edge Financial Daily the reinstatement of the licence. (Financial Daily)

It was expected to contribute to the further activation of the Samurai bond market by attracting new bond issuers. (StarBiz)

GLOBAL NEWS

US: Businesses set to step up capital goods spending

A gauge of planned business spending on capital goods rose in June, buoying hopes of an acceleration in economic growth in 2H 2013. The data on Thursday was the latest to suggest factory activity was regaining some momentum after hitting a soft patch earlier this year and it fit in with views that the drag on the economy from tighter fiscal policy was ebbing. Non-defense capital goods orders excluding aircraft, a closely watched proxy for business spending plans, increased 0.7% last month, the Commerce Department said. May's gain was also revised higher, to 2.2% from 1.5%. (Reuters)

US: Jobless claims rose last week by 7,000 to 343,000

More Americans filed for unemployment benefits last week as annual auto-plant shutdowns continued to affect data. Jobless claims rose by 7,000 to 343,000 in the week ended July 20 from a revised 336,000 the prior period, Labor Department figures showed on Thursday in Washington. The median forecast of 49 economists surveyed by Bloomberg projected 340,000. The retooling at carmakers and school closings typical during this time of year continued to influence the figures last week, a spokesman said as the data were released. Beyond the swings, the job market is improving as firings slow and payroll gains pick up, raising the odds that consumer spending will accelerate in the second half of the year. Fewer dismissals would lay the foundation for larger gains in hiring as the peak of the drag from government budget cuts passes. (Bloomberg)

US: Would get short-term job spike if spending cuts reversed, CBO says

The economy would enjoy a short-term boost with up to 1.6m jobs being added if Congress were to cancel more than U$10bn in upcoming automatic spending cuts required of the federal government, the Congressional Budget Office estimated on Thursday. Earlier this year, Congress failed to negotiate a deal to either repeal $1.2trn in across-the-board spending cuts over 10 years or substitute them with more targeted government savings. CBO, in a letter to Representative Chris Van Hollen, the senior Democrat on the House Budget Committee who requested the study, said cancelling the spending cuts scheduled for August 2013 through September 2014, would increase US economic activity by 0.7% in 3Q 2014, the end of that fiscal year. Employment, CBO said, would be 300,000 to 1.6m higher by reversing the spending reductions than under current law. (Reuters)

UK: Economic growth quickens to 0.6% as recovery gains

UK economic growth accelerated in the second quarter as all main industries showed expansion for the first time in three years, indicating Britain's recovery is gaining traction. GDP increased 0.6% from the first quarter, when it rose 0.3%, the Office for National Statistics said in London. That matched the median forecast of 37 economists in a Bloomberg News survey. Services, production, construction and agriculture all grew, the first time that has happened since 3Q 2010. From a year earlier, GDP rose 1.4%. New Bank of England Governor Mark Carney is preparing to outline the Monetary Policy Committee's approach to forward guidance on policy next month as he looks to cement the economic rebound. Threats to growth remain, both domestically from the government's fiscal squeeze and internationally from the tensions in the euro area and a slowdown in China, the world's second largest economy. (Bloomberg)

Germany: Business confidence rises for a third month

German business confidence rose for a third month in July, indicating that Europe's largest economy is recovering as the 17-nation euro region tries to shake off its longest-ever recession. The Ifo institute's business climate index, based on a survey of 7,000 executives, rose to 106.2 from 105.9 in June. Economists predicted an increase to 106.1, according to the median of 45 forecasts in a Bloomberg News survey. German unemployment unexpectedly declined in June and the nation led the first expansion in euro-area manufacturing in 2 years in July. The Bundesbank said this week that the domestic economy grew "strongly" in the second quarter, while warning of signs of a summer slowdown. (Bloomberg)

China: Cuts capacity in some industries to reshape economy

China ordered more than 1,400 companies in 19 industries to cut excess production capacity this year, part of efforts to shift toward slower, more-sustainable economic growth. Steelmaking, ferroalloys, electrolytic aluminum, copper smelting, cement production and papermaking are among areas affected, the Ministry of Industry and Information Technology said in a statement posted on its website yesterday. Excess capacity must be idled by September and eliminated by year-end, it said. (Bloomberg)

Philippines: Holds rate to shield growth as global risks rise

The Philippines held its benchmark interest rate at a record low even as it said a weakening peso poses inflation risks, joining nations from South Korea to Thailand in shielding growth. Bangko Sentral ng Pilipinas kept the rate it pays lenders for overnight deposits at 3.5%, according to a statement in Manila on Thursday, as forecast by all 18 economists surveyed by Bloomberg News. It also held the rate on special deposit accounts at 2%, as predicted by 11 of 12 economists. President Benigno Aquino this week asked lawmakers to pass measures to boost business competitiveness and improve governance to sustain the nation's expansion. Exports have slipped and a growth slowdown in China has dimmed the region's outlook, while a weakening peso led the central bank to raise its inflation forecasts. (Bloomberg)
